WEDDING SATIN... Mrs. William Charles Lebeck Jr., nee Patricia Anne Findley, and her husband smile after marriage rites held Saturday, July 26, at the Central Evangelical United Brethren Church. 'All in Family' Fit Slogan For Minister Of Findley, William Lebeck Wedding

"Like mother like daughter." That old saying came true Saturday evening, July 26, when Patricia Anne Findley was wed to William Charles Lebeck Jr., officiating minister was the Rev. Samuel Ford, of the Jeannette, Pa., First Methodist Church, who had officiated at the marriage of his cousin, mother of the bride, to Paul Findley some 24 years before.

The Rev. Homer Miller of the Central Evangelical United Brethren Church, wedding scene, also officiated.

Shades of orchid, water-green, and yellow taffeta in the bridal entourage gave a rainbow effect to the nuptials.

Miss Findley's princess gown of candlelight ivory satin trimmed with Chantilly lace peplum extending the full length of the long train was the bright note among the muted colors of her attendants' costumes. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli and stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Irene Hoy, matron of honor and sister of the bride, wore an orchid taffeta gown, carrying a nosegay of white and yellow carnations centered with yellow roses. The bouquet was encircled with water green ribbon and orchid sweet peas.

Bridesmaids, Mesdames Peggy Crook and Virginia Ursich, wore water green taffeta and carried nosegays fashioned like the matron of honor's bouquet, but contrasting orchid ribbon with the white and yellow flowers.

Jane Lebeck, niece of the bride, was the ring bearer.
